Mission Statement:

To manage and conserve the natural and cultural resources of Texas and to provide hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation opportunities for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations.

Description and History:

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department provides outdoor recreational opportunities by managing and protecting wildlife and wildlife habitat and acquiring and managing parklands and historic areas. It has inherited the functions of many state entities created to protect Texas' natural resources. In 1895 the legislature created the Fish and Oyster Commission to regulate fishing. The Game Department was added to the commission in 1907. The State Parks Board was created as a separate entity in 1923. In the 1930s, projects of the federal Civilian Conservation Corps added substantially to the state's parklands. In 1951, the term oyster was dropped from the wildlife agency's name, and in 1963, the Parks Board and the Game and Fish Commission were merged to form the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The legislature placed authority for managing fish and wildlife resources in all Texas counties with the Parks and Wildlife Department when it passed the Wildlife Conservation Act in 1983. Previously, commissioners' courts had set game and fish laws in many counties, and other counties had veto power over department regulations.

The agency currently has 11 internal divisions: Wildlife, Coastal Fisheries, Inland Fisheries, Law Enforcement, Legal, State Parks, Infrastructure, Communications, Administrative Resources, Human Resources and Information Technology. Intergovernmental affairs, diversity and inclusion, internal audit and internal investigations are administered through the Executive Office.

Executive Office

Executive Director: Carter P. Smith

Deputy Executive Director for Administration, Dawn Heikkila

Deputy Executive Director for Natural Resources, Ross Melinchuk

The Executive Office is responsible for the management and oversight of a diverse agency consisting of 11 divisions with a variety of technical, legal, and regulatory programs, facilities and services. Executive staff coordinates all activities related to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, Legislature, and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Foundation, an independent 501 (c) (3) organization dedicated to raising private funds to support the Department's programs. This office also oversees all work relating to land acquisitions, internal audits, intergovernmental affairs, and internal investigation functions. Executive office staff receives and coordinates all incoming correspondence and most public contact. The Executive Director is chief executive officer of the department and, as such, coordinates the development of agency strategy and policy, supervises senior agency management, serves as the senior decision making authority and coordinates staff interactions with the commission. In all these matters, the director is supported by the Executive Office team, including the Deputy Executive Directors for Operations, Administration and Natural Resources.

Administrative Resources Division

Director: Michael J. Jensen

The Administrative Resources Division is responsible for financial services, budget and planning and analysis. Financial services include accounting, purchasing and contracting, payroll, voucher processing and revenue collection. Budget includes preparation of the agency's budgets and Legislative Appropriations Requests. Planning and Analysis includes strategic planning, performance measure reporting and various analyses. The division is also directly responsible for the registration and titling of boats and motors and the issuance of hunting, fishing and other licenses and serves as the primary contact for coordination of requests from state oversight agencies. The division strives to continually improve services to both internal and external customers.

Coastal Fisheries Division

Director: Robin Riechers

The Coastal Fisheries Division manages the marine fishery resources of Texas' four million acres of saltwater, including the bays and estuaries and out to nine nautical miles in the Gulf of Mexico. Coastal Fisheries management strategies are directed toward optimizing the long-term utilization and sustaining fisheries populations at levels that are necessary to ensure replenishable stocks of commercially and recreationally important species. The division also focuses on habitat conservation and restoration and leads the agency research, management and inter-agency coordination on all water-related issues, including assuring adequate in-stream flows for Texas' rivers and sufficient freshwater inflows for bays and estuaries. These priority goals and strategies will assure our marine waters' health and productivity and protect fish, wildlife and plant resources from degradation or depletion.

The Coastal Fisheries staff has worked closely with other department divisions as well as other state, federal and international fishery management agencies to provide optimum opportunities from and conservation for the rich biological diversity inherent in Texas' marine waters.

Communications Division

Director: Josh Havens

The Communication Division's primary responsibility is to increase awareness of the importance of conserving the natural and cultural resources of Texas, increase participation in outdoor recreational activities and encourage safe, legal and ethical behavior among resource users. Through a wide range of media products and marketing efforts, the Communications Division drives traffic to the agency's revenue-producing products including hunting and fishing licenses, boat registrations, both day and overnight park visitation as well as other special programs and events. Communications products include the TPWD website, the Texas Parks & Wildlife magazine, a weekly PBS television series, the Passport to Texas daily radio program, a video news report program, video products, e-newsletters and a wide range of internal and external publications and public information items. The division provides the state's mandatory boater and hunter education programs, conservation education initiatives, fishing, archery, shooting sports outreach programs and events and nature-tourism marketing efforts including the Texas Paddling Trails.

Human Resources Division

Director: Kent White

The Human Resources Division supports the agency's mission through a variety of personnel services aimed at attracting and retaining a highly skilled and diverse workforce. The division's activities are largely customer-driven, with continual efforts to improve personnel services and business processes, as well as the agency's overall work culture. The division maintains all personnel records and relies heavily on customer input in the development of policies and procedures and in determining training needs and priorities. Primary services include on-going human resources policy development and interpretation, job analysis and classification, staff recruitment, job vacancy announcements and application processing, new hire and separation processing, benefits and compensation administration, complaints and grievance administration, leadership development and management training programs, performance management and employee service and recognition award programs.

Information Technology Division

Director: George Rios

Information Technology is a customer-driven division working to further the technological advancement of the agency in support of the TPWD mission. We accomplish this through the integration of new and existing technology while ensuring the security and integrity of our agency systems and maintaining compliance with legislative mandates and oversight.

IT strives to work with agency staff to align our technology services to meet our shared agency goals. We provide reliable, secure and cost effective services to our users and offer efficient telecommunication options for our voice and data customers at headquarters and in the field. We direct the acquisition and use of technology throughout the agency and provide oversight to our systems through the use of security policies, procedures and guidelines intended to safely facilitate the expansion of technology to our users. The IT Project Management group works with agency staff to ensure that all projects with an information technology component are effectively managed within the larger project framework.

We continue working on the expansion of network and wireless technology to meet our field and mobile computing needs. Our development staff continues to work with on the development and delivery of custom applications to better serve our customers. We strive to deliver an excellent customer service experience to our users through the Help Desk, Desktop Computing group and by providing training opportunities to employees throughout the state.

Infrastructure Division

Director: Jessica Davison

The Infrastructure Division provides project management, professional planning, design, construction, and technical services to all divisions of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. In support of the agency's mission, the division's goals are to deliver environmentally appropriate projects on-time and within budget, and provide sound, properly scoped stewardship of public dollars.

The Division is organized into six branches: Division Administration, Contracting, Planning and Design, Field Operations, Project Management, and Support Services. The division manages agency capital construction projects that vary in size, scope, and cover repair work as well as new development. The projects are for the other divisions within the agency, but mainly for the State Parks, Wildlife, Coastal Fisheries, Inland Fisheries, and Law Enforcement divisions. The division also manages 118 radio towers statewide; maintains the agency's telecommunications systems consisting of over 15,000 pieces of equipment; and administers a fleet of over 2,200 agency vehicles annually.

Inland Fisheries Division

Director: Craig Bonds

The Inland Fisheries Division is responsible for managing and protecting the state's diverse freshwater fisheries resources. The goal of this management is to provide the best possible angling while protecting and enhancing freshwater aquatic resources. The resources include approximately 1000 public impoundments covering 1.7 million acres and 191,000 miles of rivers and streams. These resources are used by about 1.85 million anglers 16 years of age and older whose fishing activities provide great benefit to the Texas economy through an estimated $2.4 billion per year in direct angler spending on food, lodging, transportation, and equipment.

The division's activities include fisheries management and research, ecosystem and habitat assessment, instream flow and river studies, fish production, fish kill assessments, environmental contaminant analysis, natural resources damage recovery, wetlands conservation, permitting, angler education and information, and fishing access. Division staff is located in Austin, San Marcos, 3 regional offices, 15 district offices, 1 research center, and 5 fish hatcheries. This includes the Texas Freshwater Fisheries Center in Athens, which combines a state-of-the-art fish hatchery and research center with an educational visitors' center.

Law Enforcement Division

Director: Colonel Craig Hunter

The Law Enforcement Division provides a comprehensive statewide law enforcement program to protect Texas' wildlife and other natural resources and provide safe boating and recreational water safety on public waters by ensuring compliance with applicable state laws and regulations. TPWD game wardens are responsible for enforcement of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Code, all TPWD regulations, the Texas Penal Code and selected statutes and regulations applicable to clean air and water, hazardous materials and human health. Wardens fulfill these responsibilities through educating the public about various laws and regulations, preventing violations by conducting high visibility patrols and apprehending and arresting violators. Texas game wardens also serve their communities as first responders in emergency management and homeland security. Operation Game Thief provides citizens with a toll-free telephone number to report poaching and other violations. The Law Enforcement Division operates 27 field offices and employs 532 wardens throughout the state. About 127 administrative personnel sell licenses, register boats, and provide the public with local information across the state. Due to the scope of their operations, Texas game wardens serve as Texas law enforcement off the pavement.

Legal Division

General Counsel, Ann Bright

The Legal Division's primary responsibility is to provide legal advice and assistance to TPWD staff and the TPW Commission regarding matters within TPWD's authority, such as water quality, water rights, fish and wildlife law, criminal law, employment law, contract law, administrative law, and open government law. Legal Division attorneys also represent TPWD in administrative legal proceedings; assist the Attorney General's office in litigation involving TPWD, review and draft agreements involving TPWD and assist TPWD staff with rulemaking. In addition, the Legal Division is the division primarily responsible for coordinating responses to requests for information under the Texas Public Information Act and coordinating the agency's regulations process under the Administrative Procedure Act.

State Parks Division

Director: Brent Leisure

The State Parks Division is responsible for protecting, interpreting, and managing cultural and natural resources of statewide significance and providing outdoor recreation opportunities. Ten programs based at the Headquarters complex and eight regional offices seek to increase participation by families, especially children, in healthy recreational, as well as educational opportunities at state parks and historic sites. The division manages 95 state parks, historic sites and natural areas on more than 600,000 acres of land owned or leased by the department. Conserving the resources of these sites and educating visitors is the core function of state park staff which serves more than 8 million visitors annually. The division uses professional business practices to generate revenue equal to about half of the park system operating budget. To ensure the relevance of the park system to all Texans in the future, the park division continues to develop programs to introduce new users to the outdoors, utilize parks as classrooms, and provide outdoor skills to families. The division also distributes grants for the development of trails, boat ramps and other outdoor facilities.

Wildlife Division

Director: Clayton Wolf

The Wildlife Division's mission is to manage and conserve the natural and cultural resources of Texas and to provide hunting, fishing, and outdoor recreation opportunities for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations. To accomplish this mission, division personnel annually conduct about 4,000 wildlife population surveys, provide recommendations concerning the management of about 1,200 vertebrate wildlife species, conduct about 40 wildlife research studies, manage 49 wildlife management areas totaling 769,684 acres, hold public hunts on more than 250 tracts of land totaling more than 1.1 million acres, provide landowner incentives to manage for rare species, inform the public about wildlife, provide technical guidance to private landowners, and develop more than 8,000 active wildlife management plans for about 30 million acres of private lands.
